FOR: Mohegan Park

Mohegan Park is a great place to participate in The Great Backyard Bird Count (GBBC) February 16 – 19, 2018. The GBBC is an international, free, fun, and easy welcome to bird watchers of all agest. All bird watchers become citizen scientists by counting birds to create a real-time snapshot of bird populations. Participants count birds for as little as 15 minutes (or as long as they wish) on one or more days of the four-day event and report their sightings online at gbbc.birdcount.org. Mohegan Park in Norwich, CT is open from dawn to dusk, 365 days a year and admission is free. Suggested areas are along any of the four walking trails. There are benches, rest and scenic areas, parking lots and picnic areas to attract birds. Park Center offers views onto Spaulding Pond, and woods. While not in bloom the Rose Garden offers delightful hiding places for views of tiny birds. Some larger birds have made their home near the Lower Pond. Or you can participate in the GBBC while in your own home, or in any of the parks, greens, fields and parades of Norwich.

FOR: Smith Harris House Program

Novel History: The Great War in Literature

Reading & Discussion Series

East Lyme Public Library & Smith-Harris House

February—May (specific dates listed), 7 pm, Free!

Join the Smith-Harris House and the East Lyme Public Library as we celebrate the 100th anniversary of America's participation in the Great War. We'll take a detailed, chronological look at how the Great War has been portrayed in American literature, and how these books both represented current historical scholarship and impacted the literary landscape. Meet guest lecturers, and participate in discussions about great books. Free, with refreshments provided. All dates are Mondays, at 7:00 pm in the Library's East Lyme Room.

February 26 (snow date March 5)-- One of Ours (1922) by Willa Cather. One of Ours, winner of the Pulitzer Prize in 1922, portrays the blighting effects of twentieth-century progress on a free spirit from the American frontier. Claude Wheeler, its hero, is an imaginative, restless young man who leaves his claustrophobic small town to become a soldier in France during World War I. The Old World shows him culture, art, generosity, and appreciation, and also the horror, waste, and tragedy of war.

Upcoming books and dates: March 26: The Harlem Hellfighters by Max Brooks; April 30: A Farewell to Arms, by Ernest Hemingway; and May 21: A Star for Mrs. Blake, by April Smith. To register, stop by in person or call the library at (860)739-6926. The library will carry multiple copies of the books; however, a library card is necessary for checkout.
